HAIR DRESSERS GET PTOMAINE POISON.

Three members of the Queen Beauty Parlor at 419 North Central avenue at ptomaine in food last Saturday.

The dinner was purchased from ladies serving meals on church lawn. This is similar to cases occurring in various portions of the state practically every day as there are any number of can goods of old varieties remaining upon shelves of grocers for disposal in which poison most likely exist. They are sold to the consumer and thus the result follows. Those victims were Miss Addie Williams, proprietress of the parlor; Miss Katie Dawson and Miss Pearl Goodman. Nothing however of a serious nature followed.

FIRST LIEUTENANT EVERETT BANQUETED AND GIVEN LOVING CUP BY NEGRO BUSINESS LEAGUE.

The assembly hall of the Colored Community House of the War Camp Community service was the scene of a brilliant affair Tuesday night.

The occasion was a smoker tendered First Lieutenant Percival L. Everett of the National Army of the United States, who has seen active service in France.

At the slated the guests assembled around banquet table and Dr. J. H. Dodd fired the first gun announcing that festivities would immediately begin he introduced J. H. Dixon, President of the Business League under whose auspices the affair was given who after some deliberations introduced the toast master, Dr. Frank J. Hawkins, who in the choice of language swayed the audience with matchless expressions appropriate to the occasion.

Following celebrities were called upon and responded.

Col. S. T. Simpson, Dr. A. H. Dyson, R. Lee Jones, Judge A. S. Wells, Prof. J. C. Phillips and Dr. I. M. Horton, optician.

After the responses the honored guest, First Lieutenant Percival L. Everett was introduced and after a very lengthy argument detailing the part played in the world's greatest drama by Negro troops exhibited trophies collected upon the battle fields.

He held the big assemblage spell bound during his course of talk and enriched the evening in his conclusive remarks.

Prof. John Rice made the presentation speech in presenting the handsome loving cup having been purchased and donated by local business league. Prof. Rice swayed his audience in masterly style as he began analyzing the part the American Negro played in the great world war he specially emphasized that the war has taught the black man one sacred principle, co-operation and it is co-operation that will make us forceful and courageous. Lieutenant Everett then thanked the citizens for the token. Mr. Wm. P. Vaughn, manager of the community house announced that the community house doors stood open for the entertainment of the citizens and extended a cordial welcome.

Messrs. A. R. Pryor, Chas. T. Brackins and J. H. Dixon, deserves much credit for their activeness in making the affair a success.
